What This Volume Is About

Volume 1 begins before words. It helps parents understand the sensory and attentional systems that make communication possible. The focus is not on forcing speech, but on helping the child feel safe, organised and available for connection.

Through practical home routines, parents learn how to recognise sensory overload, co-regulate more effectively, build sustained attention and strengthen the earliest social foundations - response to name, eye-gaze shifting, joint attention and shared affect.

Every volume includes the same orientation tools, so parents can understand the full sequence and begin at the level that matches the child today - not the level they hope to reach later.

VOLUME 1

Who Should Read This Volume?

- Your child is frequently overwhelmed, dysregulated or prone to meltdowns.
- Your child cannot settle long enough to learn, play or engage.
- Basic needs are communicated mainly through behaviour, avoidance, pulling or distress.
- There is no consistent yes/no response, pointing or functional gesture system.
- Your child often seems disconnected, withdrawn or difficult to reach.
- You need a clear starting point before formal language teaching.

4 What Problem This Volume Solves

- Replaces trial-and-error sensory strategies with a structured parent framework.
- Explains why a child may be physically present but neurologically unavailable for learning.
- Reduces pressure to produce words before regulation and attention are ready.
- Builds the biological and relational foundation for all later communication.

VOLUME 1

What You Learn From This Volume

- Identify your child's sensory profile and overload patterns.
- Build a more reliable response to name.
- Use sensory modulation as a practical "volume control".
- Strengthen eye-gaze awareness and shifting.
- Apply co-regulation strategies during daily routines.
- Develop joint attention through following and initiating.
- Increase the child's ability to remain engaged for longer periods.
- Repair broken moments of shared attention.
- Improve tolerance for transitions and unexpected changes.
- Encourage social referencing and shared affect.

Designed for practice inside ordinary family routines - not only at a therapy table.
